

Tax Rates ^[1]

Not all taxes are created equal. Review important information about federal, state and supplemental income taxes.

Federal taxes

Only current employees who want to change their withholdings, those who filed as tax-exempt in the prior tax year, and new hires need to submit a W-4 to CU.

See the self-service W-4 webpage for full instructions ^[2]

Helpful resources

Ensuring that the right amount of tax is withheld from your pay is an important part of preventing an unexpected bill or penalty during tax season.

Use the IRS Tax Estimator ^[3] to help determine your withholdings. Get started by gathering your most recent paystubs, income tax return and W-2s. If your personal circumstances change during the year, revisit the estimator to ensure withholdings are still correct.

State taxes

The University of Colorado withholds state taxes from the state in which you perform work. Make sure your withholdings are correct by submitting your state's W-4.

Supplemental income taxes

If you receive certain forms of compensation beyond your regular salary, it may be taxed. This can include, but is not limited to, bonuses, severance payments from termination of your employment, some prizes and awards, reimbursements of nondeductible moving expenses and more. The rates at which specific earnings are taxed are determined by IRS and individual states.

The current federal tax rate on supplemental wages is 22% and Colorado's rate is 4.4%. Learn more about specific taxable supplemental incomes below.
