Policy 11.B: Faculty Salary¹

11.B.1 Introduction

The university recognizes the vital importance of its faculty to the mission of the University of Colorado. Teaching students is one fundamental purpose of the university; it is faculty members who provide that instruction. The faculty convey the latest information and techniques to students so that graduates can be educated citizens and locally, nationally, and internationally competitive. Generating new knowledge is a second fundamental purpose of the university; it is faculty members who define the cutting edge of their fields of knowledge through their scholarly/creative work, which also strengthens the education of their students. Faculty members also contribute to the university's well-being, mission, and operations through shared governance and leadership and service to the institution and the community.

The university recognizes the central role of the faculty in maintaining and furthering its mission by investing resources in them, including resources to support their salaries. This policy is focused on key faculty salary principles and processes, with additional details articulated in administrative policy statements and campus policies.

Faculty salary (a portion of total compensation) is a major factor in attracting, retaining, and rewarding highly-qualified faculty and maintaining quality academic programs (see Regent Policy 10.E – Compensation Principles). It shall be a priority in annual budgetary planning.

The university is committed to identifying and remedying unlawful pay inequities. Each campus shall have a policy or mechanism for periodic review of salary structure for inequities.

11.B.2 Annual Salary Adjustments²

(A) Annual adjustments to an individual's salary may be the result of:

- (1) the annual base-building merit evaluation process;
- (2) other base-building adjustments, for example, to address market, career merit inequities, salary equity, promotion, or institutional priorities; and/or

² Salary adjustment may be an increase or a decrease in salary.

- (3) non-base building adjustments.
- (B) Each campus shall develop a plan for allocation of the annual salary pool to schools/colleges and other academic and administrative units.
 - (1) The campus plan shall not include salary recommendations for individual faculty.
 - (2) The administration shall provide the campus faculty assembly with the opportunity to review the campus plan for allocating the salary pool.
- (C) Based on the dean's authority and responsibilities as the principal academic and administrative officer of a school or college (see Regent Policy 4.A: Administration and Governance of Academic Units), the dean determines the salary pool allocation to primary units within a school or college.
- (D) Notwithstanding any other term or provision of this policy, the chancellor of each campus is authorized to approve individual retirement incentive agreements for eligible faculty on the chancellor's campus. See Administrative Policy Statement 5016 – Faculty Retirement Agreements.

11.B.3 Determining Annual Salary Adjustments

A faculty member's total base salary adjustment shall include the annual merit-based salary adjustment, and any additional base-building salary adjustments to address market, career merit inequities, salary equity, promotion, and institutional priorities. A faculty member may also receive non-base building adjustments in certain circumstances.

Steps are discussed below, which include determining the annual merit score of each faculty member; determining the merit-based, base-building salary adjustments; determining additional base-building salary adjustments; and finally, determining any non-base building salary adjustments.

As part of the annual salary process, each faculty member shall have access to a copy of their salary recommendations from all administrative levels.

- (A) Annual Merit Evaluation
 - (1) Activities and expectations for teaching, scholarly/creative work, leadership and service, and where applicable, other categories specific to the unit (e.g., clinical activity, librarianship) vary widely across and within primary units. For this reason, the unit level annual evaluation process should reasonably include both objective and subjective professional judgments. Reducing the inherent complexity of faculty activities to a strict formula is discouraged.
 - (2) Determinations of annual merit-based salary adjustments shall be made based on primary unit processes that are clearly articulated in a written document.

- (a) The faculty of the primary unit shall develop, in consultation with the chair, dean, and the provost, a process for annual merit evaluation. As described in regent policy 5.C.4(B), faculty evaluations shall be based on peer review, with exceptions at the Anschutz Medical Campus. The annual merit evaluation process shall be made known to all faculty members within a unit.
- (b) The primary unit annual merit evaluation process shall consider teaching, scholarly/creative work, leadership and service, and where applicable, other categories specific to the unit (e.g., clinical activity, librarianship). The primary unit evaluation process shall lead to a determination of performance in each category. The annual merit evaluation process shall consider the individual's agreed upon workload for the evaluation year. The overall annual merit score shall be the weighted combination, based on workload, of the individual category scores.
- (c) Each primary unit shall have a mechanism that captures a uniform set of parameters for annual activities in teaching, scholarly/creative work, leadership and service, and where applicable, other categories specific to the unit (e.g., clinical activity, librarianship), including information from the annual Faculty Report of Professional Activity (e.g., faculty course questionnaire data, class size, course modality, research expenditures, acceptance rates of publication venues, etc.). This mechanism shall be clearly articulated in a written document that is available to all faculty members in the unit.
- (d) In any given year, primary units may choose to evaluate parameters (e.g., publications) based on performance over multiple years (up to five years) to reflect ongoing activities that may not yield measurable results in a single year. Parameters for multiple year evaluations shall be the same as the individual year parameters.
- (e) See Administrative Policy Statements 5008 - Faculty Performance Evaluations and 1009 - Multiple Means of Teaching Evaluation.
- (f) The administration may review the performance scores produced by the faculty process to evaluate, as appropriate, intra- and inter-unit consistency.

(B) Annual Merit-Based, Base-Building Salary Adjustment

- (1) Using annual merit scores, each primary unit shall have a transparent process for making initial annual merit-based, base-building recommendations for salary adjustments.

(C) Additional Base-Building Salary Adjustments

Market, career merit inequities, salary equity, promotion, and institutional priorities may lead to additional base-building salary adjustments.

- (1) Campuses shall have a transparent process for evaluating needs and awarding salary adjustments to address market, career merit inequities, salary equity, promotion, and institutional priorities. The processes should also consider and address inequities arising from these related adjustments.

(D) Total Annual Base-Building Salary Adjustment

- (1) Based on the recommendations in sections 11.B.3(B)(1) and 11.B.3(C), the annual base-building salary adjustment shall be made by the primary unit to the dean who shall then issue a recommendation to the provost and chancellor for final approval.

(E) Non-Base Building Adjustments

Faculty members may be awarded non-base building salary adjustments based on merit and in accordance with specific criteria and guidelines approved by the campus chancellor. These salary adjustments may be awarded for no more than one academic year at a time; however, they may be renewed in subsequent years.

- (1) Faculty who perform work outside their regular duties or at a substantially higher level than their regular assignment may be awarded a non-base building salary supplement. This may include teaching or other work beyond the faculty members' standard assignment and is not associated with a differentiated workload.
- (2) Faculty who have an administrative appointment may qualify for a non-base building administrative salary supplement with approval by the dean and, as may be required, the provost, chancellor, or president.
- (3) Faculty who have received an approved monetary recognition or achievement award may be issued a non-base building salary supplement.

11.B.4 Appeal Processes

- (A) Faculty members who are not satisfied with their annual merit evaluation rating may request a peer review based on primary unit or school/college procedures. See Administrative Policy Statement 5008 – Faculty Performance Evaluations.
- (B) Faculty members who are not satisfied with their annual salary have the right to appeal through campus-defined administrative processes and to seek a review of that appeal.

- (C) For any perceived violations of academic freedom or academic rights, including those that may be associated with a salary appeal, a grievance to the Faculty Senate Grievance Committee (FSGC) may be filed in accordance with regent policy 5.G (See regent policy 5.G.1.C).

11.B.5 Explanation of Terms

- (A) Merit

Merit is the prevailing factor in all salary increases at the University of Colorado. Peer evaluation of faculty performance in the areas of teaching, scholarly/creative work, and leadership and service, and where applicable, other categories specific to the unit (e.g., clinical activity, librarianship) forms the basis for merit increases. Salary adjustments or increases that take into account market, career merit inequities, salary equity, promotion, or institutional priorities must be simultaneously based on merit.

- (B) Career Merit

Year-to-year variations in the amount of funds in the available salary pool as well as the timing of faculty productivity can lead to salary inequities over time. Evaluations using career merit allow a unit to remedy any inadvertent discrepancies caused by the vicissitudes of budgets and timing of productivity.

- (C) Market Adjustments

Market adjustments are salary adjustments given to the primary unit to match significant competitive changes in the salary available to members of a particular discipline or specialty at comparable institutions.

- (D) Primary Unit

Schools and colleges are academic units approved by the Board of Regents. Departments are academic units, within a school or college, approved by the Board of Regents. Departments approved by the Board of Regents are primary units. Schools or colleges without regent-approved departments are primary units. According to regent policy 5.A.1(B)(3), faculty members of the primary unit shall have principal responsibility for the conduct of annual faculty performance evaluations and post-tenure reviews based on procedures developed in collaboration with the administration, as stated in regent policy 5.A.1(C)(1).

(E) Salary Equity

The university is committed to salary equity for all members of the faculty and follows a practice of periodic equity reviews of salary profiles to compare individuals to similarly situated faculty in the primary unit.

(F) Salary Pool

The term salary pool, approved annually by the Board of Regents, supports both annual merit evaluation-based salary adjustments and adjustments for market, career merit inequities, salary equity, promotion, and institutional priorities.

Policy 11.C: University Staff Salary

11.C.1 Salary Setting

As the major component of compensation, salary levels for university staff reflect the university's policy of providing base salaries comparable to those paid by institutions of similar enrollment, organization, and financial support to persons in positions of comparable responsibility. Base salary also consider differences in the scope of responsibilities of university personnel and typical positions of similar title in other institutions. Where relevant, comparisons are made with salaries in government and business.

- (A) Human Resources recommends initial salaries for university staff consistent with market conditions, education, training, or other relevant experience of the individual to the extent they are reasonably related to the position in question, and salaries for similarly situated employees as defined by applicable law. The president or their delegee approves the appointments and recommended initial salaries as stipulated in Regent Policy 2.K: Personnel Authority for Employees Exempt from the State Personnel System.
 - (1) Initial salaries must be within a range specified at the beginning of the search process. Exceptions are permitted in extraordinary circumstances with appropriate approvals.
- (B) Housing allowances, automobile allowances, and use of courtesy cars constitute forms of supplemental pay and should be documented in the letter of offer or the letter of offer addendum and should be approved per regent policy 2.K.
- (C) Hiring (recruitment) incentives are either lump sum amounts or base-building salary adjustments that are paid at a specific time within an appointment or when a documented competency/requirement is met. Either type of hiring incentive should be documented in the letter of offer or the letter of offer addendum and is approved per regent policy 2.K and should be offered in accordance with applicable law.
- (D) Moving incentives are either a lump sum amount, a reimbursement of actual moving costs, or directly paying a moving company on the employee's behalf. All moving expenses are taxable and should be documented in the letter of offer or letter of offer addendum and should be offered in accordance with applicable law.
- (E) Initial salaries for university staff serving in an acting or interim capacity will be recommended by human resources with market conditions, education, experience, comparable positions, and approved budget and will be subject to the regular approval process.

- (1) An increase or stipend¹ for serving in an acting or interim role is not required but may be authorized. Upon completion of service in the acting or interim capacity, the employee's salary will return to the former standard appointment salary including any changes resulting from the annual compensation process.
- (2) Employees in acting or interim positions may have the salary associated with their standard appointment (i.e., base salary) adjusted during the annual salary-setting process. The additional salary associated with the interim position would then be recalculated and/or added to the adjusted salary for the standard appointment.

11.C.2 Base-Building Allocation

The university administers an annual process for salary adjustments.² As part of the annual salary adjustment process, each campus and system administration will determine the budget for salary adjustments and a salary plan to allocate that budget. Performance-based, structural, across-the-board, market, retention and/or equity increases should be identified within and funded from the salary plan.

(A) Annual Salary Allocation

The Board of Regents shall approve and distribute details on the annual salary allocation process for university staff to the campuses and system administration each year.

(B) Base-Building Allocation Plan and Report

Each campus and the system administration shall develop a plan, consistent with this policy, to be followed at every organizational level. Annually, each campus and system administration will provide a report to the board on the implementation of their base-building allocation plan.

11.C.3 Non-Base Building Salary Allocations

- (A) The campuses and system administration may administer an annual process for non-base building salary adjustments. As part of the annual salary adjustment process, each campus and system administration may determine the budget for non-base building adjustments to allocate the one-time funds.
- (B) If the non-base building adjustments are not across-the-board, methods must be developed to assess an individual's merit, market, or equity in relation to a relevant internal peer group. The assessment must support the recommended salary adjustments. Performance planning and evaluation must be included for determining merit payments.

11.C.4 Base Salary Adjustments

Base salary adjustments are distinct from annual base-building increases. A hiring authority may adjust an employee's base salary for reasons defined in APS 5061 - Compensation Changes. The president or their delegee approves the salary adjustments stipulated in regent policy 2.K.

11.C.5 Non-Base Building Payments

In certain instances, additional non-base building pay is necessary to the mission of the university. The president or their delegee approves non-base building payments as stipulated in regent policy 2.K and for reasons defined in APS 5061 – Compensation Changes.

- (A) Non-base building payments, other than merit, are to be used only in limited circumstances and must be properly documented and approved by the appropriate campus officers of the administration. Non-base building payments can include recognition, project completion, incentive, additional work integrated with regular assignments or at a substantially higher level or outside normal work hours.
- (B) For overtime eligible positions, additional pay must not be used in place of earned overtime.
- (C) Officers of the university are only eligible for non-base building payments upon approval by the Board of Regents upon the recommendation of the president.
- (D) Implementation of these non-base building payments must be consistent systemwide with regard to taxation, retirement contributions and other benefits.

If an employee's sick leave accrual balance is less than 120 days (960 hours), the compensation payout is $\frac{1}{4}$ of the balance the employee has accrued.

- (i) For university staff and faculty on twelve-month appointments, accruals for the purpose of the maximum sick leave compensation will be based upon documented departmental sick leave records verified as of May 1, 2001.
 - (ii) Any employee whose documented accrued sick leave was in excess of 120 days (960 hours) on May 1, 2001, will use the entire accrued balance as of May 1, 2001, to identify their maximum sick leave accrual for purposes of compensation. These employees will be eligible to receive compensation payment for one-fourth ($\frac{1}{4}$) of any unused portion of the accrued balance.
- (e) Sick leave payment will be calculated at the employee's compensation rate at the time of each retirement-eligible separation from the university or upon death.

The university provides compensation beyond salary for eligible employees in the form of benefits. Benefits are authorized through the Board of Regents and include group insurance programs, such as medical, dental, life, and disability, and other benefits like flexible spending, paid leave, and retirement savings plans. New and revised university benefit programs, including eligibility, must be approved by the Board of Regents.

For university employees who are members of the state personnel system (classified staff), benefits and eligibility are defined in accordance with state laws and Department of Personnel and Administration (DPA) rules. Eligible classified staff have the option of enrolling in university benefit plans.

The university through its payroll system offers employees the opportunity for payroll deduction for approved services and organizations. Such deductions must be approved through university and/or state policy.

11.F.2 Retirement Plans and Savings Programs

Eligible employees shall be enrolled in a retirement program as provided by applicable state law or as authorized by the Board of Regents. State and university retirement plans are contributory. The employer and employee levels of contribution to the retirement plans are subject to change and limitations set by federal tax law.

(A) Classified Staff:

- (1) Eligible classified staff enroll in one of the two PERA retirement plans: The PERA Defined Benefit (DB) Plan or, effective January 1, 2019, The PERA Defined Contribution (DC) Plan. Eligibility and rules are governed by Colorado PERA.
- (2) Eligible classified staff may also choose to participate in the following voluntary retirement savings plans:
 - (a) 403(b) Plan: The university-sponsored 403(b) Plan offers two retirement savings programs: the pretax option and the ROTH option.
 - (b) 457 Plan: The 457 Plan is a state of Colorado-sponsored retirement savings plan.

(c) PERA 401(k) Plan: The PERA 401(k) Plan is a PERA-sponsored retirement savings plan.

In addition, the board maintains responsibility for defining retirement plan eligibility. The administrative duties, including management of vendor contracts and employee enrollment processes, are carried out by the university's plan administrator.

11.F.3 Age and Years of Service Requirements for the University's Post-Retirement Benefits

(A) Classified Staff and Other University Employees Enrolled in a PERA Retirement Plan

To be eligible for university retirement benefits offered in addition to a PERA Retirement Plan, employees must have five (5) years of eligible CU Service and are required to retire (does not include a refund of your DB account) with PERA.

The combined years of service and age requirements for a PERA Retirement Plan are governed by PERA in accordance with Title 24, Article 51 of the Colorado Revised Statutes, and the Rules of the Colorado Public Employees' Retirement Association (visit the PERA website at: <https://www.copera.org/>)

To be eligible for university retirement benefits offered in addition to the 401(a) ORP, employees must be 55 years of age; have five (5) years of eligible CU Service; and meet the age and years of eligible CU service requirements for regular or early retirement.

Regular or early retirement is based on the 70/75 formula. If the age and years of eligible CU service adds up to 70-74, the individual is eligible for early retirement, and the University of Colorado contribution towards retiree insurance benefits will be pro-rated based on the actual years of eligible CU service divided by the required years of eligible CU service for regular retirement. Eligible years of CU service will include all years in which the employee worked in a regular, retirement-eligible position at 50% time or greater at the University of Colorado.

- (C) Faculty, University Staff, and Classified Staff Terminated and Ineligible for Rehire

Individuals who have been terminated from the University of Colorado and are Not Eligible for Rehire are ineligible for any CU Retirement Benefits that are offered in addition to PERA or the 401(a) ORP.

11.F.4 Early Retirement Incentives Programs

- (A) Retirement Incentive Agreements for Tenure and Tenure-Track Faculty. For the purpose of determining eligibility for a specific retirement incentive program for tenure and tenure-track faculty, such as a phased retirement program, the age plus years of service requirements may be reduced to total no less than 65 if the faculty member is at least 50 years of age upon retirement.

Also, tenure and tenure-track faculty may count years of service at other higher education institutions (employment of 50% time or greater) in determining whether the age plus years of service requirement is met if: (1) the faculty member will have been employed at the university for a minimum of five years prior to the retirement date in the retirement incentive agreement; and (2) the faculty member was age 55 or greater on the first date of employment at the university.

- (B) Individualized Retirement Incentive Programs. The president is authorized to develop retirement incentive options in addition to phased retirement programs for faculty, including a “window program” and an “individualized retirement incentive program.” In a window program, employees in an identified group who meet a specified combination of age and years of service would be eligible for a separation incentive. In an individualized retirement incentive program, an incentive, drawn from a menu of options tailored to the individual employee, would be offered to the employee. These options are considered perquisites under State Fiscal Rules, and the Board of Regents authorizes the president to seek necessary approvals from the governor and the state controller to implement such options.
